“ I remember giving birth to you my baby boy. As soon as you were delivered i asked the Dr. is it a girl or boy and before they could tell me you decided you had to go to the bathroom on me, so that's when i got my answer. You will always be my baby boy. I know how much you loved me and worried about me. I also know you carried that 💙 with you and I will always 💙 you and carry you forever in my 💙! !! Rest now my son!! No more pain and suffering. Walk all over GOD'S heaven with new legs and feet !!!

“ I remember when we were coming home from school. I told you not to go sit in the back of the bus. You went anyway. I got off the bus and assumed you did too. You fell asleep on the bus and I ran home to tell mommy what happened and Stevie got on his bike and rode to the end of the line and you were on the bus coming back . You were on the bus looking out the window crying and Stevie got you off the bus.

Shaun was around me often in different times of our adult life. Of course I'm his mom's age. But I'd always introduce him as my little cousin. Folk would say little cousin. lol. That how he got the name from my as "my Lil Cuzin". I'm going to miss his unexpected visits as he checked on #everybody at some point in time. That's the kind of person he was. He cared about you. 🙌
