“ Aunt Tracey was my ride or die when I was younger. She was a huge part of me staying in contact with my little brothers when I went through foster care. She made it her business to get in contact with my foster mother to get me every and any weekend she could. Even if I was bad that week and my foster mom said no she was persistent in me getting over there. She is one of the main reasons I have a love for the Lord as she kept us in church faithfully as well and I remember being over her house playing Need for Speed and Mahjong for countless hours. Waking up on Saturdays binge watching cartoons on every channel sitting on the floor eating cereal just living life. Auntie I will miss you so dearly and i wish I would've come around more as I got older. But even when I did eventually stop through the block to pop my head in you never scolded me for not coming around, instead you told me you loved me and how proud you were that I was doing well and not in any trouble. I thank God I got to experience you and your love before he called you home. May you sleep peacefully and watch over us has we continue this journey of physical life. I love you Auntie.

“ Remembering, as a child, my grandmother wouldn't let me go with anyone but Tracey. As an adult, no matter what I went through, good, bad, depression, babies, Tracey loved me! Going back to laying on her bedroom floor in that little house, watching her play her games, she would look over and say "I love you joy-joy". -i love you Tracey! My sincerest condolences to the family
